- (i) the ways in which the corporation pursued and created the specific public benefit stated in its articles

Pivot Interactives SBC has pursued and created the specific public benefit stated in its articles by providing authentic science experiments for education that are grounded in best-practices pedagogies and built around interactive videos of real events. Our experiments are fully available online and cost much less than traditional pedagogy tools (like textbooks) and traditional laboratory equipment. While this benefit has always been significant, the COVID years have placed unique stresses on educational institutions that we are able to help alleviate. In addition to the interactive videos mentioned above, we have also integrated simulations, and BlueTooth sensors into our platform, producing a versatile and powerful platform that helps teachers teach better and helps students learn better.

- (ii) the extent to which that specific public benefit purpose was pursued and created;

This public benefit has been pursued to the fullest extent of our abilities. It is the single focus of our corporation and we saw a lot of success last year. Our platform was used by hundreds of thousands of students and their teachers across the country, providing them with authentic science learning experiences.
